

PROVINCIA AUTONOMA DI TRENTO

Trentino is an autonomous province in the Dolomite Alps of northeastern Italy. The map on the far left is of the regions of Trentino. Most are named for the river valleys that run through them. Agriculture (apples, vegetables and grapes for wine) is the primary product of the area. Tourism is one of its principal industries. The map on the near left shows the location of Trentino in red, and that of its neighboring partner-province of Alto Adige in tan. The capitol of Trentino is the city of Trento.

Seattle Trentino Club

Celebrating the customs, languages, music, food and traditions of Trentino!

Seattle Trentino Club

was formed in March of 2010 by a group of families with ties to Trentino. The club's vision is to preserve the culture (food, languages, music, traditions and other customs) of the region. The group grew quickly to include members all over Washington State and in Alaska, Idaho, Oregon, Montana, California and Arizona.

The emphasis is on fun and friendship for members of all ages, enjoying sharing their knowledge of the Trentino way of life both old and new.

Seattle Trentino Club

is affiliated with ITTONA (International Tyrolean Trentino Organization of North America) which serves as an umbrella organization uniting all Tyrolean-Trentini clubs in North America. It acts as liaison between the clubs and the Trentino nel Mondo Association and the Autonomous Provincial Government of Trentino and it organizes the biennial ITTONA convention.

It is also affiliated with NAYTO (North American Young Trentini Organization), a group for students and young professionals. Opportunities for Trentino youth include scholarships and international exchanges, Italian language instruction, professional development and networking.

Seattle Trentino Club

membership is open to native Trentini and descendants of native Trentini and their families, as well as to those who share the vision of the club. The cost of membership is $25 per year per household.

Contact Seattle Trentino Club at joanbarker@mac.com if you wish to be placed on our mailing list. You will receive our newsletter which contains reports on our activities, Trentino lore and genealogy information. There is also a Seattle Trentino Club group page on Facebook.
